Interaction

Jeffrey Heer University of Washington

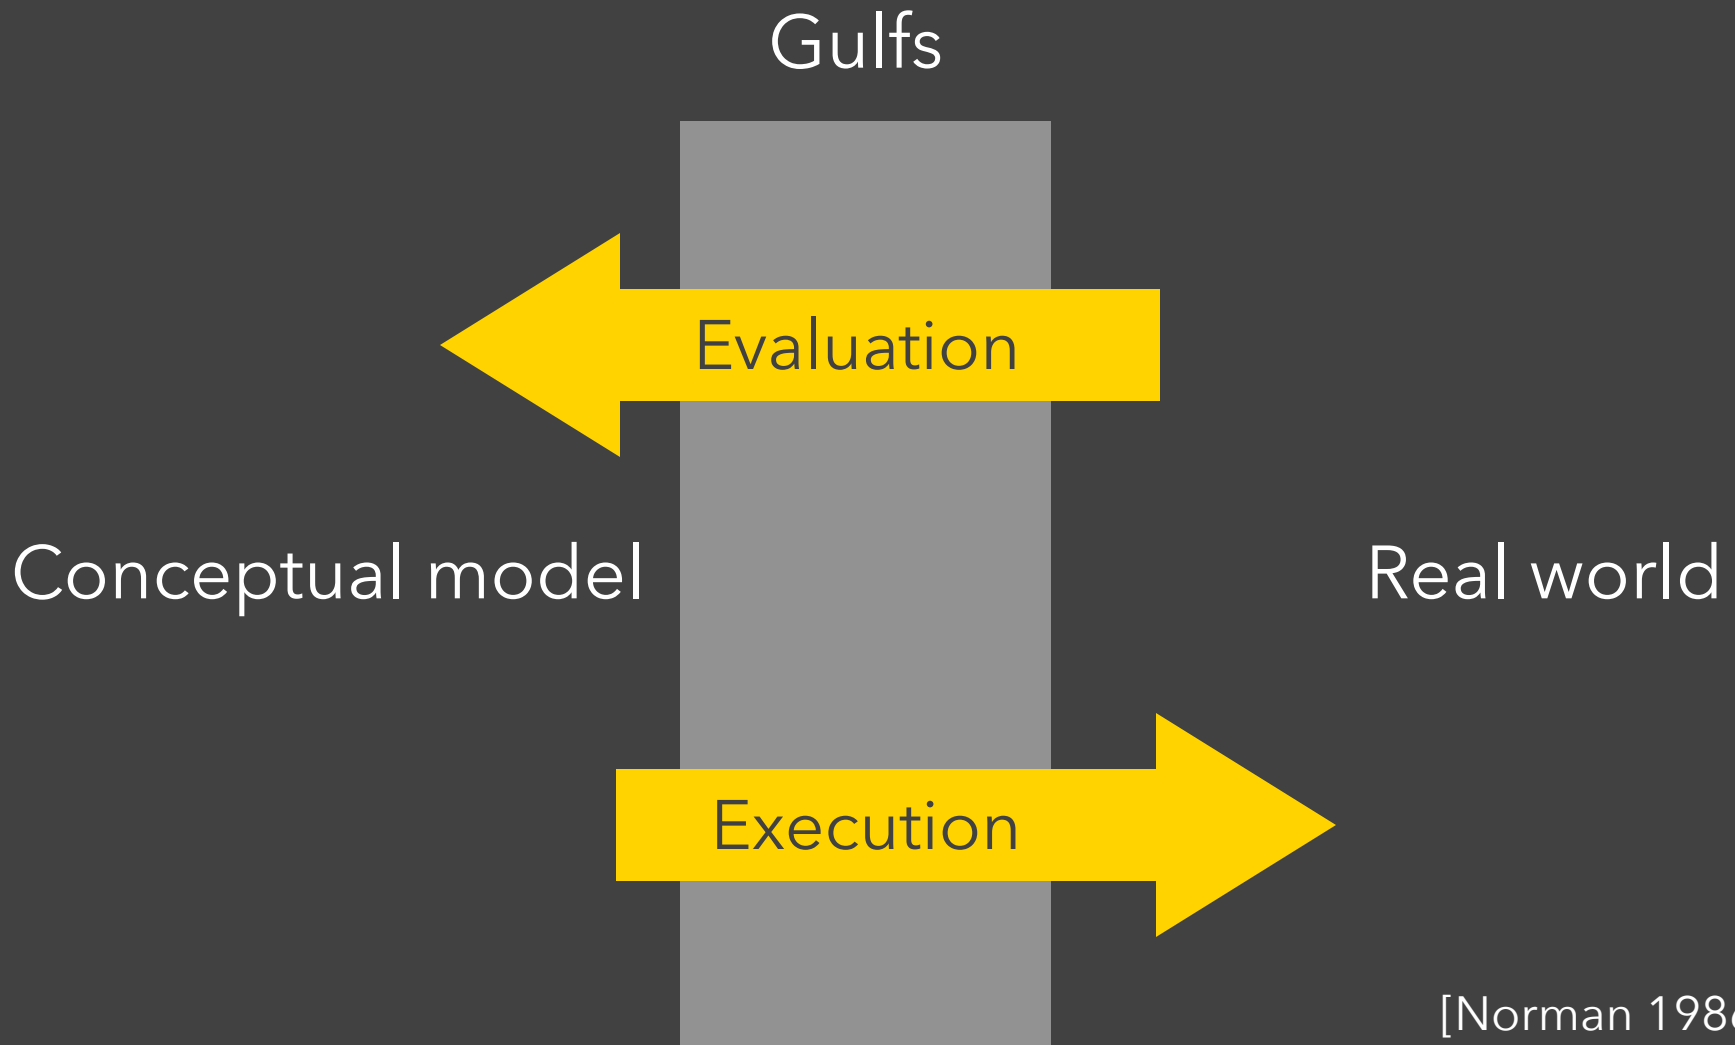

[There is an] apparent challenge that computational artifacts pose to the longstanding distinction between the physical and the social, in the special sense of those things that one designs, builds, and uses, on the one hand, and those things with which one communicates, on the other.

“Interaction” – in a sense previously reserved for describing a uniquely interpersonal activity – seems appropriately to characterize what goes on between people and certain machines as well.

Lucy Suchman, Plans and Situated Actions

Interaction between people and machines requires mutual intelligibility or shared understanding.

The difference between the user's intentions and the allowable actions.

Gulf of Evaluation

The amount of effort that the person must exert to interpret the state of the system and to determine how well the expectations and intentions have been met.
