

Research Position Search Engine

- Website that searches the UW website for potential undergraduate research opportunities
- Allows students to quickly find research openings in their majors
- No comparable service exists for UW students

Challenges

- Faculty can indicate availability of research positions in many different ways
- Must extract relevant information reliably from highly irregular data and context
- Requires sophisticated text parsing