

CSE 589 – The End

I don't feel good.

Last words of Luther Burbank (1849- 1926)

Don't let it end like this. Tell them I said something.

Last words of Pancho Villa (1877-1923)

Tell them I said something.

Last CSE589 lecture of Anna Karlin

Announcements

Final will be available on the course web page by Friday morning at 10am (and possibly by the time I go to bed on Thursday night).

This quarter – summary

Stable marriage (induction)
Dynamic programming
Elementary graph algorithms
Maximum flow
Linear programming
NP-completeness
Coping with NP-completeness
Hashing
Splay Trees
Crypto (not on final)

This quarter -- summary

We did a lot of material.
Hopefully, it will open some doors.
You'd be surprised at how useful things that seem abstract or purely mathematical are.

You never know what you need to know.

Samuel Karlin

You need to know 10 times more than you're ever going to use.

Samuel Karlin

You can't operate at the margin of your knowledge.

Samuel Karlin

Evals.